Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Imperial India: Letters From the East At half-past four in the morning, while the stars made the city lights seem little more than candle flames, and the bright moon made the harbour signals mere spots of glowing red, I saw Bombay, a dark, low mass against the sky, for the first time. It was the one still hour of my voyage, for our journey had been a long conversation, occasionally interrupted by short nights of rest in the flattered Mediterranean, the hot Red Sea, and the sleepless Indian Ocean, by picturesque delays at Port Said, the Suez Canal, and Aden.
